

Introducing...

John & Claire Oldani Oldani Family Farm

16530 CR 63 • Brooks, CA 95606 • 530-796-4143 • 530-796-3800 (f) • coldani@yolo.com

John and Claire Oldani, relative newcomers to the Capay Valley region, have operated Oldani Family Farm in Brooks, CA for seven years, where they produce figs, pears, apricots, plums, and a variety of other delicious fruits.

Farm Name

Oldani Family Farm

Owners

John and Claire Oldani

Education

University of Wisconsin, Madison
(BA)

Family

2 wonderful children and 1 beautiful grandchild

Community Involvement

Library Board (John)

Number of Years Farming

8

Our Farm

Using certified organic production practices, Oldani Family Farm uses seasonal workers to prune olives, oranges, pears, apricots, and plums on 23 acres.

The farm also produces a variety of other savory fruits such as apples, quince, pomegranates, and figs.

Distribution of Product

Oldani Family Farm's production is sold to wholesale distributors and at a local farmers' market. Customers can also find the products at Village Market in Oakland, CA and the farmers' market in Esparto. They also donate unsold fruit to the food bank.

Joys of Farming

Overall, we truly enjoy both the independent life that comes with farming as well as the challenges. There is great pleasure in producing delicious foods and sharing them with the community.

Challenges of Farming

The biggest challenge we face here at the Oldani Family Farm is learning about all of the diverse products that we grow.

